Subject Overview:	This subject offers an introduction to literary Chinese (wenyan) which was the formal written language of imperial China and the foundation of modern written Chinese. A knowledge of literary Chinese is thus indispensable in attaining higher level literacy in Chinese. Literary Chinese also includes texts written in classical Chinese in antiquity. In this subject students will read masterpieces of Chinese philosophy and literature from antiquity to the Tang period. Students will develop skills in reading texts written in full-form characters and acquire a basic knowledge of the particles and syntax of literary Chinese. They will also explore the origin and meaning of Chinese proverbs and the function of wenyan in contemporary usage.
Objectives:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # develop skills in reading Chinese texts written in full-form characters; # have mastered the basic structural principles of Classical Chinese; # be able to understand the function of most particles commonly used in guwen texts; # have gained some confidence in translating and interpreting material written in classical Chinese; # be able to contextualise judgements; # be able to critically analyse another culture; # acquire logical thinking skills.
Assessment:	A class presentation and paper of 1500 words 20% (during semester, the paper is due one week after the presentation), a 1-hour review test in class equivalent to 500 words 20% (due in week 6) and a 2-hour examination 60% (during the examination period).
Prescribed Texts:	Gateway to the Chinese Classics: A Practical Introduction to Literary Chinese (J L Faurot) China Books and Periodicals, 1995
