Subject Overview:	This subject offers students the opportunity to learn, internalise and activate more sophisticated aspects of Arabic morphology and syntax and to develop a deeper analytical understanding of the language. This will be achieved through interacting with a variety of written and spoken texts ranging from travellers' accounts to modern literary prose and poetry, from biographical pieces to interviews and short lectures. These will allow students to further their understanding of the history of the Middle East, Islam and Muslim society, as well as modern social trends and movements emerging in the region. Conversations and discussions will provide opportunities to express one's own opinions and feelings on topics of cultural, social and political nature. Written expression will be developed through the preparation of resumes, summaries, complex narratives, descriptive, informative and evaluative pieces, and students will be able to engage in the creative process of producing imaginative writing of their own.
Objectives:	On completion of this subject, students will:  # have acquired some important grammatical structures and concepts of the Arabic language along with an understanding of their functions, and the ability to use these to engage in written and oral communication and to construct meaning;

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li># be able to elaborate, narrate, describe and evaluate, will be able to prepare and deliver presentations of significant length and some complexity on selected topics, and can handle many normal, high frequency social conversational situations;</li> <li># have developed the ability to interact with unvocalised texts with some support, and to use dictionaries independently to read texts ranging from tales, literary prose, modern poetry to informative and evaluative writing and essays;</li> <li># have developed the ability to write resumes, summaries, complex narratives, informative and evaluative pieces and produce imaginative writing;</li> <li># have developed the ability to understand the main ideas and many details of connected discourse on a variety of topics spoken at slower than normal speed;</li> <li># have learnt about some aspects of the history of the Middle East and North Africa, Islam and Muslim society.</li> </ul>
Assessment:	Continuous homework assessment (8 pieces of written assignments) (throughout the semester) 20%, continuous oral assessment 20% (throughout the semester) 20%, mid-semester written test (during the middle of the semester) 15%, 15-minute oral examination (during the examination period) 15% and a 2-hour written examination (during the examination period) 30%. Class attendance is required for this subject; if you do not attend a minimum of 80% of classes without an approved exemption you will not be eligible for a pass in this subject. Assessment submitted late without an approved extension will be penalised at 10% per day. In-class tasks missed without approval will not be marked.
