Contact:	Arts Student Centre (http://www.arts.unimelb.edu.au/about/contact.html)
Course Overview:	The Diploma in Languages provides students with the opportunity to gain a Diploma in language study while completing an undergraduate degree at the University of Melbourne. The Diploma consists of a three-year sequence of language study and may add up to one year to the duration of the student's degree course. In fast track mode both the Bachelors degree and Diploma may be completed in three years (see examples of course structure) Diploma in Languages information (http://www.arts.unimelb.edu.au/futturestudents/programs/concurrent.html) on the Faculty of Arts page and information on the Language Curriculum Reform (http://arts.unimelb.edu.au/fcr/) for 2012. Diploma in Languages students enrol in language subjects alongside their degree subjects in an integrated sequence of study. The Diploma may only be awarded on the completion of the Bachelor degree course. This means that graduation from the Diploma will only occur once the Degree is completed. The final 50 points of the Diploma in Languages is HECS-free. The HECS exemption is available to new generation undergraduate degree students but not to Bachelor of Engineering students. Only the final 50 points of the Diploma in Languages are HECS-free – students must have completed the first 50 points of the Diploma (either through a cross crediting arrangement or in addition to their degree requirements) to be eligible for the HECS-free 50 points. Students wishing to qualify for entry to the BA (Honours) should note that Diploma graduates must have completed a Bachelor of Arts degree to be eligible to apply for the BA (Honours), otherwise they may apply to enter the Postgraduate Diploma in Arts.
Objectives:	On completion of the Diploma in Languages, students should: # have acquired a mastery of both oral/aural and writing/reading skills comparable to that of a student majoring in a language discipline; # have gained a basic understanding of selected aspects of the culture (or cultures) and of the society (or societies) associated with the language.
Course Structure & Available Subjects:	The following languages specialisations and levels are available for DipLang study: # Arabic (beginners and post-VCE) # Chinese (beginners*, non-dialect speakers with VCE Chinese, and background speakers) # French (beginners, intermediate and post-VCE) # German (beginners and post-VCE) # Indonesian (beginners and post-VCE) # Indonesian (beginners and post-VCE) # Japanese (beginners, intermediate and post-VCE) # Russian (beginners, post-VCE and advanced stream) # Russian (beginners) # Spanish (beginners, intermediate and post-VCE) # Swedish (beginners and intermediate). There will be no first year intake in to Swedish from 2011. *Note that a beginners stream major in Chinese requires 125 points of study. Therefore, it is not possible to complete the equivalent of a beginners stream Chinese major through the DipLang. The Diploma is available either in sequential mode (completing the Bachelors degree and the Diploma concurrently) or in fast-track mode for high achieving students (see fast track structure).
