Subject Overview:	Narrative Projects 1A teaches craft skills in the First Semester that cover major aspects of filmmaking specific to this chosen strand of study. This subject is delivered in practical based workshops, where students learn to apply the skills taught in Screenwriting 1 and Screen Language 1A by assuming responsibility for their semester one production. Each student will write, direct and edit one exercise. In addition, students will crew and collaborate on other student productions within their own year group. Students may elect to produce their Exercise One project on or off campus depending on the necessary locations. Students are also expected, when crewing on fellow student' exercises, to work on or off campus.
Objectives:	This subject will enable students to: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• develop an understanding of filmmaking techniques and equipment specific to narrative;• develop an understanding of the pre and post production processes;• develop an effective understanding of the intensity of the filmmaking process;• develop the ability to work within a filmmaking crew in a designated crewing role.
Assessment:	CrewingStudents are required to crew on fellow students exercises (20% of total mark). Exercise OneExercises shall be of a short duration in length. The specific details of the production depend on the specialization and students will refer to their production guidelines handbook. Each student writes, directs and edits his/her own production (40% of total mark).Production FolioAll industry standard pre-production, production and postproduction paperwork to be handed in at a professional standard to the supervising producer on due dates (20% of total mark).Class/Workshop ParticipationParticipation assessed on criteria of engagement, the ability to discuss and give/receive feedback and teamwork skills. Attendance is compulsory (20% of total mark).Students must submit all assessment items in order to be eligible for a pass in this subject.
