Subject Overview:	This subject will expand students' knowledge of major theories in areas of organisational behaviour by examining the empirical foundations of these theories, as well as more current research in these areas. This subject will examine current research addressing critical issues at the individual, group and organisational level. Topics may include trust, conflict, identity, culture, psychological contracts and the psychodynamics of organisations. Each topic area will be considered in terms of its relevance to the workplace, particularly how it may be used to deal with organisational problems.
Objectives:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Analyse current issues in organisational behaviour, their genesis, and their implications • Critically evaluate the theories and models that inform those issues • Articulate and critically evaluate your own beliefs and implicit theories about organisations • Apply your critical understandings of organisational behaviour to real, simulated and case-based organisational and managerial problems
Assessment:	A 3-hour end-of-semester examination (50%) and assignments totalling not more than 5000 words (50%).
Prescribed Texts:	You will be advised of prescribed texts by your lecturer.
