Subject Overview:	Much philosophy in 19th century Europe reflects almost unlimited confidence in the power of reason to master not only the natural world, but the human world as well. Alongside this confidence, however, there exists deep scepticism about reason, even hostility towards it. A central figure in the second camp is Nietzsche. This course explores Nietzsche's attacks on reason in relation to one or more other philosophers who centralise reason in a way to which Nietzsche is hostile. The other philosopher(s) will usually be from the 19th century eg Kant or Hegel or Schiller, but may also be a figure from elsewhere in the history of philosophy who matters to Nietzsche's radical critique, for example Socrates.
Objectives:	Students who successfully complete this subject will:  # understand some of the key themes of Nietzsche's thought.  # have developed a deeper understanding of some of the philosophical ideas against which Nietzsche was reacting.  # be able to bring to bear this understanding on their other studies, inside and outside philosophy.
