Subject Overview:	Students prepare a proposal for a program of studio practice appropriate to their needs. Emphasis is on consolidation of the advances made through experimentation within a graduate diploma course or the research of an honours year or equivalent experiences, the clarification of personal concerns and the focussing of studio activity. Guidance and assistance is provided through group and individual tutorials. Note: An individual supervisor is assigned to overview the student's development over the semester. The Studio Seminar Each student is asked to present an exhibition of works in progress in the Postgraduate student gallery and to partake of a formal seminar where two of their cohort are nominated to present written responses to the art works presented (this is a public forum). In general the Studio seminar explores critically each students selected studio output and the attendant technical, aesthetic, personal, social and cultural implications. Each student is required to present a work-in-progress exhibition in the Postgraduate gallery, supported by a seminar presentation related to the work.
Learning Outcomes:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # Further development and refinement of the ability to manipulate and manage the materials and processes involved in the chosen visual art medium # Further development and refinement of the ability to express ideas and personal concerns through the chosen visual art medium; # Further development and refinement of the ability to gather and synthesise information and other resources in the service of a personal art practice; # Further development and refinement of the ability to discuss contemporary art practice and its personal, professional and social context.

Assessment:	Submission of a body of work which reflects the range of student activity throughout the semester and which demonstrates the student's developing conceptual ability; critical capacity; development of independent work practises; technical, manipulative and perceptual skills (100%). In order to be eligible for assessment a student must have attended a minimum of 80% of the scheduled Studio Seminars, presented work in one of the seminars and delivered prepared responses to the exhibited work in two others.
