Subject Overview:	The subject explores a range of Spanish musical styles from the middle ages to the present day, and their interaction with European and American musical traditions. Topics include aspects of early music, opera and music theatre, concert music, film music, contemporary popular music, flamenco and the guitar in Spanish music. The subject will engage with the music's creation, dissemination, social contexts and modes of consumption, and will draw on recent scholarship relating to issues of identity, nationalism and exoticism in the musics studied.
Learning Outcomes:	On completion of this subject students should have developed their critical skills, as well as their ability to write on a variety of musical styles and performance contexts associated with Spain. They will have further appreciation of the social contexts of music and its dissemination.
Assessment:	One 5-minute presentation and 3 journal entries (250 words each) delivered throughout the semester in the tutorials - Throughout Semester (30%) One essay of 1500 words - End of Semester (50%) A one-hour listening-based test - Examination Period (20%)
