Subject Overview:	This subject provides an introduction to Australian foreign policy, exploring its domestic and global contexts. It examines Australia's most important bilateral, regional, and multilateral relations in both historical and contemporary terms. It explores key themes including Australia's national identity, interests, security and prosperity, the Australia-US alliance, Australia's engagement with international organisations such as the UN, WTO, and G20, Australia's role as a regional power in the South Pacific, and Australia's increasing engagement with Asia. The subject also investigates key foreign policy issues on the contemporary Australian agenda including global climate change negotiations, human rights, overseas aid and asylum-seekers, trade and economic globalisation, transnational terrorism and arms control. Students who complete this subject will be equipped to articulate and debate the conceptual, analytical, and normative dimensions of Australian foreign policy.
Learning Outcomes:	On completion of this subject students should: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # Understand important global and domestic contexts within which states formulate and execute foreign policy; # Be able to identify historical and contemporary themes and developments unique to Australian foreign policy; # Understand Australia's key multilateral, regional and bilateral relations and engagements; # Be able to explain how Australian foreign policy-making has been affected by, and adapted to, the processes of globalisation; # Be able to critically discuss a number of central issues on the contemporary Australian foreign policy agenda, and be able to explain and evaluate government responses to them; # Work productively in groups.
