1

166-498 Women in Global Politics

Level:   9 (Graduate/Postgraduate)     Detes & Locations:   2009, This subject commences in the following study period's: Semester 1, - Taught on campus.     Time Commitment:   Contact Hours: A 2-hour seminar per week Total Time Commitment: 2 contact hours/week , 8 additional hours/week. Total of 8.5 hours per week.     Pereguisites:   Admission to the postgraduate certificate/ diploma in Political Science or International Politics.     Corequisites:   None     Recommended Background Knowledge   None     Recommended Background Knowledge   None     Corequisites:   None     Core patignation Requirements:   Sp-For the purposes of considering request for Reasonable Adjustments under the Disability requirements for this subject are anticulated in the Subject Overview, Learning Outcomes, Assessment and Genetic Subjects continuities of this entry-0, s-cy-bit Europhysicator for the requirements Subject are encouraged to discuss this matter with a Faculty Student Advisor and Student Equity and Disability Support: -a href="http://services.unimelb.edu.au/disability">http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability/a>-v/p>=     Contact:   Prof Shelia Joy Jeffreys     Contact:   Prof Shelia Joy Jeffreys     Subject Overview:   This subject with the work of robits tron diffuser forming politics. It will consider the ways in which feminist thorists tron different forming politics. It will consider the ways in which feminist thorists tron different forming politins: Intellowed theory on u	Credit Points:	12.50
2009, This subject commences in the following study period/s: Semester 1, - Taught on campus.   Time Commitment: Contact Hours: A 2-hour seminar per week Total Time Commitment: 2 contact hours/week, 8 additional hours/week. Total of 8.5 hours per week.   Prerequisites: Admission to the postgraduate certificate/ diploma in Political Science or International Politics. or fourth-year honours in Political Science or International Studies, or the Master of International Politics.   Corequisites: None   Recommended Background Knowledge None   Core Participation Sp-For the purposes of considering request for Reasonable Adjustments under the Disability Standards for Education (Cwth 2005), and Student Support and Ergagement Policy, academic requirements for this subject are anticouted in the Subject Overview, Learning Outcomes on takes assessment and Genetic Skills sections of this entry.   Core Participation resonable adjustments will be made to enhance a student's participation in the University policy for personable adjustments will be made to enhance a student's unit of hourse's the Subject are encouraged to discuss this matter with a Faculty Student Adviser and Student Equity and Disability Support:-a anter-in-thrp://services.unimelb.edu.au/disability'>http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability'>http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability'>http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability'>http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability'>http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability'>http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability'>http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability'>http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability'>http:// services.unim	Level:	9 (Graduate/Postgraduate) additional hours/week. Total of 8.5 hours per week.   Prerequisites: Admission to the postgraduate certificate/dploma in Political Science or International Politics, or the Master of International Politics.   Corequisites: None   Recommended Background Knowledge: None   Requirements: One   Core Participation: None   Requirements: None   Requirements: One   Core Participation: None   Requirements: Admission to Education (Cwth 2005, and Student Support and Engagement Policy, academic reguirements for this subject are articulated on the Support on academic study, and reasonable steps to minimise the impact of disability upon academic study, and reasonable steps to minimise the impact of disability upon academic study, and reasonable steps to minimise the impact of disability upon academic study, and reasonable adjustments will be made to enhance a student's participation in the University's programs. Students who feel their disability may impact on meeting the requirements of this subject are encourage to discuss this matter with a Faculy Student Adviser and Student Equipment Student Studen	Dates & Locations:	This subject commences in the following study period/s:
or fourth-year honours in Political Science or International Studies, or the Master of International Politics.     Corequisites:   None     Recommended Background Knowledge:   None     One Participation Requirements:   -For the purposes of considering request for Reasonable Adjustments under the Disability Standards for Education (Cwth 2005), and Student Support and Engagement Policy, academic requirements for this subject are anculated in the Subject Overview, Learning Outcomes, Assessment and Generic Skills sections of this entry.   -p>-tils University policy to take all reasonable steps to minimise the impact of disability you academic study, and reasonable adjustments will be made to enhance a student's participation in the University's programs. Students who feel their disability may impact on meeting the requirements of this subject are encouraged to discuss this matter with a Faculty Student Adviser and Student Equity and Disability.Support: a thef="http://services.unimelb.edu.au/disability">http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability      Subject Overview:   This subject are encouraged to discuss this matter with a faculty Student Adviser and Student Subject Overview:     Object Overview:   This subject will examine ferminist contributions to the theorising of international politics. It will contact:     Subject Overview:   This subject on eccleminism, third world ferminism, flooring and on opsotolonial area.     Objectives:   # understand the ways in which ferminist theorists have 'gendered' international politics. It will contact:     Objectives:   # understand the ways in which fermini	Time Commitment:
Recommended Background Knowledge:   None     Non Allowed Subjects:   None     Core Participation Requirements:   cp>For the purposes of considering request for Reasonable Adjustments under the Disability Standards for Education (Cwth 2005), and Student Support and Engagement Policy, academic reasonable steps to minimises the impact of disability upon academic study, and reasonable adjustments will be made to enhance a student's participation in the University's programs. Students who feel their disability may impact on meeting the requirements of this subject are encouraged to discuss this matter with a Faculty Student Adviser and Student Equity and Disability Support: http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability/sav-/p&gt;     Contact:   Prof. Sheila Joy Jeffreys     Subject Overview:   This subject are infinist contributions to the theorising of international politics. It will consider the ways in which feminist theorists from different teminist positions. It will include feminist interventions in and critiques of international relations. It will include feminist interventions in and critiques of international relations. It will include feminist interventions in and critiques of international area.     Objectives:   # understand the ways in which feminist scholars have 'gendered' international relation students theory on the following topics will be included feminisms, theorising the international politics. It will consider the ways in which feminist theorists from different teministic positions. It will include feminist interventions in and critiques of international political theory for the ways in which theorising of international politics: theory on the following topics will be included temi	Prerequisites:	or fourth-year honours in Political Science or International Studies, or the Master of International
Background Knowledge:   None     Non Allowed Subjects:   None     Core Participation Requirements:   cp>For the purposes of considering request for Reasonable Adjustments under the Disability Standards for Education (Cwth 2005), and Student Support and Engagement Policy, academic reasonable steps to minimise the impact of disability University policy to take all reasonable steps to minimise the impact of disability upon academic study, and reasonable adjustments will be made to enhance a student's participation in the University's programs. Students who feel their disability may impact on meeting the requirements of this subject are encouraged to discuss this matter with a Faculty Student Adviser and Student Equity and Disability Support: http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability-/a&gt;      Contact:   Prof Sheila Joy Jeffreys sheila@unimelb.edu.au     Subject Overview:   This subject will examine feminist contributions to the theorising of international politics. It will notice the ways in which feminist theorists have 'gendered' international politics. It will include feminist interventions in and critiques of international politics. It will include theory on the following topics will be included: nationalism, cultural relativism, multiculturalism, fundamentalism, ecoleminism, third world feminisms, theorising on international politics. It will westpress of human rights approaches, women and armed conflict. On completion students should have developed the ability to criticise bolies of theory and areas of knowledge which do not include the ideas and experience of women; # twoeteveloped the ability to criticise bolies of theory and areas of knowledge which do not include the ideas and experience of women; # twoeteveloped the ab	Corequisites:	None
Core Participation Requirements:   Sp For the purposes of considering request for Reasonable Adjustments under the Disability Standards for Education (Cwth 2005), and Student Support and Engagement Policy, academic requirements for this subject are articulated in the Subject Overview, Learning Outcomes, Assessment and Generic Skills sections of this entry-c/p> It is University policy to take all reasonable steps to minimise the impact of disability youp academic study, and reasonable adjustments will be made to enhance a student's participation in the University's programs. Students who feel their disability may impact on meeting the requirements of this subject are encouraged to discuss this matter with a Faculty Student Adviser and Student Equity and Disability Support. http:// services.unimelb.edu.au/disability-c/a&gt;     Contact:   Prof. Sheila Joy Jeffreys Sheila@unimelb.edu.au     Subject Overview:   This subject will examine feminist contributions to the theorising of international politics. It will consider the ways in which feminist theorists form different feminist participation, It will include finitis interventions in and critiques of international law and of postcolonial theory. Feminist theory on the following topics will be included: nationalism, cultural relativism, multiculturalism, fundamentalism, ecoferminism, third world feminism, theorising the international set industy, the usefulness of human rights approaches, women and armed conflict. On completion students should have developed the ability to criticise international politics that the subject aims to develop will be useful to students working in the international area.     Objectives:   # understand the ways in which feminist scholars have criticised and contributed to the theorising of international p		None
Requirements: Standards for Éducation (Cwth 2005), and Student Support and Engagement Policy, academic requirements for this subject are ariculated in the Subject Overview, Learning Outcomes, Assessment and Generic Skills sections of this entry-(zp> ti ts University policy to take all reasonable steps to minimise the impact of disability upon academic study, and reasonable adjustments will be made to enhance a student's participation in the University's programs. Students who feel their disability may impact on meeting the requirements of this upic-tare encouraged to discuss this matter with a Faculty Student Adviser and Student Equity and Disability Support:

Notes:	Formerly available as 166-534 and 166-498. Students who have completed 166-534 or 166-498 are not eligible to enrol in this subject.
Related Course(s):	Master of Development Studies (Gender & Development) Master of International Politics
Related Majors/Minors/ Specialisations:	International Politics International Politics International Studies Political Science Political Science Political Science