Subject Overview:	A survey of the political, social, economic and cultural development of Germany from the 1848 Revolution through the catastrophe of World War I. The subject will explore the controversial contention that modern German history has followed a 'Sonderweg', a peculiar historical path which helps to explain in part the fateful emergence in the 20th century of Nazism and the Third Reich. Topics will include the 1848 Revolution, the development of industrial capitalism and a class society, Bismarck and the unification of Germany, the nature of the Second Reich, the invention of German nationalism, bourgeois culture and the emergence of a counter-culture, the creation of the German working class, the status of women, German imperialism and world policy, the Radical Right and the pre-1914 crisis, the course and impact of World War I, and the collapse of Imperial Germany.
Objectives:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # be able to demonstrate general knowledge of the principal figures and significant events in German history for the period 1848-1918; # be familiar with some of the major historiographical debates concerning German unification, the nature of the Second Empire and the outbreak of World War I.
Assessment:	A primary document analysis of 2000 words 40% (due in week 8), a two-hour written final examination 50% (during exam period), and tutorial participation (10%).
