Subject Overview:	This subject provides an overview of cultural studies approaches to contemporary popular music. Students will be introduced to the interdisciplinary traditions of scholarship that have emerged in the study of popular music's relationship to its sociocultural contexts. The subject will also provide students with the analytical skills and methodological confidence to undertake small-scale studies on contemporary musical practices. Topics will include youth subcultures, postmodern sensibilities in rock, Australian musical production, the music industry, contemporary Aboriginal music, world music, Hollywood musicals, and music-video.
Objectives:	Students who successfully complete this subject will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # understand and make use of the major methods for analysing contemporary music cultures; # understand the broad relation between governments and rock music culture, as it has developed, particularly in Australia; # appreciate how different cultural practices have coalesced around popular music in the post-war period.
Assessment:	All students will be required to give a formal 10-minute class presentation during one tutorial, and submit an essay of 1200 words 30% (due mid-semester) and an essay of 2800 words 70% (due at the end of semester). Students must attend a minimum of 10 tutorials in order to submit their work for assessment.
