Subject Overview:	The subject allows students to conduct an original research project, under supervision to be approved by a subject Coordinator. The work will be equivalent to lecture and practical based subjects worth 50 points. The content and extent of the project will be determined by a Coordinator, in collaboration with the student and the supervisor. The work would ordinarily include a review of a body of scientific literature, together with a critical evaluation of research or experimental protocols, and the development of research methods, implementation of a mathematical model, completion of an original experiment, or a thorough exploration of a scientific issue. Projects would ordinarily include a component of original research well beyond a review or critique. Projects may involve regular 1-hour discussion groups where students report on progress, major problems and plans. For substantive reasons, this research project requires more than one semester to complete. A limited number of students may undertake an industry-based research project, to be approved by the subject coordinator.
Objectives:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1 Demonstrate competence in researching and presenting an environmental research project on an environmental topic 2 Distinguish salient features and important trends in published literature and data 3 Conduct scientific or critical research on the chosen topic, contributing to acquisition of independent research skills 4 Produce a paper equivalent in length, or in content, to a journal research paper
Assessment:	A written report, in the form of a scientific paper, based on the student's original work, to be assessed by at least two people of the supervisor's choice. A subject worth 50 points should result in a report of about 10,000 words and no more than 12,000. Other parts of the assessment may include a spoken presentation, a research proposal, time schedule, attendance at seminars and workshops.
