Subject Overview:	This subject provides an in depth study of the historic Indigenous political struggle for racial equality, land justice, heritage control, and for self determination, by focusing on the Yorta Yorta as a case study. It embraces a number of relevant Indigenous political and historic themes. These will focus on pre- and post-contact history, colonisation, government policies and administration, land/heritage management, and the Yorta Yorta politico-legal struggle for their inherent rights to land, heritage, water and self determination.
Objectives:	Students who successfully complete this subject should... <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li># understand the antiquity and the holistic nature of Indigenous occupation and connections with country and the relationship between land, culture and identity.</li> <li># articulate the concept of change, adaption and continuity in the Yorta Yorta context.</li> <li># demonstrate from the "On Country Learning" experience, knowledge of the key historic, social economic and political issues confronting Indigenous groups in regional Australia.</li> <li># critically assess the extent to which Indigenous Australians have been able to gain rights under Australian politico-legal systems.</li> </ul>
Assessment:	A journal of 1500 words (40%) due in early March, and a research essay of 2500 words (60%) due in the examination period.
