Subject Overview:	This travelling studio will be held in Nanjing, China in 2010.  Expand your international design knowledge & expertise Travelling studios are 'working laboratories' for design thought and production and involve the exploration of complex, real-life issues. Exposure to unfamiliar cultures, places and people will stimulate your ability to think creatively and problem-solve. Pre-trip seminars will precede the travel component of each studio and each studio will incur travel costs, in addition to tuition fees. Faculty travel subsidies will, however, be available to all participating students.
Objectives:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1 To provide students with an experience in international collaboration and a window to China where some of the most active processes of urban renewal in the world are taking place</li> <li>2 To encourage students to identify and engage critically with issues of environmental sustainability and social and cultural difference in an international setting</li> <li>3 To stimulate creative thinking and problem solving within students through their experience of how local issues govern planning, design and construction processes in a particular location</li> </ol>
Assessment:	Class participation 10%; seminar presentation equivalent to 3000 words 30%; design proposals and workshop exercises equivalent to at least 7000 words 60%.
