Subject Overview:	This subject aims at further consolidating and developing students' competence in German and introduces them to important cultural, literary and linguistic aspects of the German-speaking countries. The language component is designed to consolidate and extend the students' proficiency in both written and spoken language through a range of activities, including grammar exercises and analysis of more complex texts and authentic audio-visual material. The Special Studies seminars gives students the opportunity to develop topics of interest within the general areas of German literature, linguistics and culture. Students will be introduced to a variety of specialised terminology and should develop analytical skills relevant to the topic area.
Objectives:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # have acquired a proficiency in basic idiomatic and conversational forms and be able to converse freely using these forms. # have acquired a proficiency in written structures of moderate complexity and be able to formulate such structures clearly and accurately. # have acquired the ability to interpret messages of an intermediate level of complexity occurring in a variety of audio-visual media. # have been introduced to important literary, linguistic and cultural aspects of the German-speaking countries. # have been given the opportunity to develop topics of interest within these general areas. # have been introduced to a variety of specialised terminology and developed analytical skills relevant to the topic area studied. # have achieved the level of language competency required for admittance into 126-015 German Language and Culture 2A and 126-017 German Cultural Studies 2.
