Subject Overview:	This subject will examine the interplay of external and internal factors in inflaming conflict and tension in the Middle East, dubbed the 'crisis zone'. It will cover the role of foreign powers in a number of case studies: the Arab/Israeli conflict, Iran-Iraq war, the Gulf War of 1990-1991, the US-led campaign in Afghanistan and the 2003 war on Iraq and its impact on relations between the West and the Muslim states of the Middle East. These case studies will illustrate the difficulties in separating 'national' from 'international politics' and provide a nuanced appreciation of international relations in this vital region.
Objectives:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # have an understanding of the major political issues which have shaped the modern Middle East from the early 20th century. # have an appreciation of the impact of external actors in the political history of the Middle East. # have an understanding of the ways in which religion has been used by political actors in the region.
Assessment:	A 2,500 word essay 35% (due week 7), a 2-hour written examination 55% (due during the examination period) and continuous tutorial participation 10%. Class attendance is required for this subject; if you do not attend a minimum of 75% of classes without an approved exemption you will not be eligible for a pass in this subject. Assessment submitted late without an approved extension will be penalised at 10% per day. In-class tasks missed without approval will not be marked. All pieces of written work must be submitted to pass this subject.
