Subject Overview:	This subject examines Roman rhetorical practice through the study of an oratorical text, such as a speech of Cicero. Both highly structured and strongly emotive, oratory was a field in which Roman aristocrats fought their political battles and asserted their Romanness. The courts and the assemblies were central stages for the performance of the roles of Roman elite men, and oratory was the medium for that performance. Students who complete this subject should be familiar with the structures and stylistic techniques of Roman oratory, be able to identify the roles of rhetorical practice in Roman social and political life, and understand its function as an instrument for Roman elite self-definition.

Objectives:	Students who successfully complete this subject should: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # be familiar with the style of Roman oratory. # be able to analyse and communicate the central themes and techniques of the text studied. # understand the cultural and production contexts of the text.
Assessment:	A 1200-word seminar paper 30%, (due during the semester). an assessment text equivalent to 1000 words 25%, (due at the end of semester). and a 1800-word essay 45%, (due in the examination period). Hurdle requirement: students must attend a minimum of 75% of tutorials in order to pass this subject. Assessment submitted late without an approved extension will be penalised at 10% per day; after five days, no late assessment will be marked. In-class tasks missed without approval will not be marked. All pieces of written work must be submitted to pass this subject.
Prescribed Texts:	RG Austin (Ed), Pro Caelio Cicero, Oxford University Press, 1960
