Subject Overview:	This subject introduces students to writing for performance. It aims to give students the opportunity to experiment with the performance potential of their writing. Through discussions on performance studies, aspects of performance writing and practice, and in workshops, students will explore the range of skills involved in writing for performance and develop their own work for performance. This subject is highly recommended for students who are planning to take Advanced Screenwriting and/or Writing for Theatre in the 3rd year of their studies.
Objectives:	Students who complete this subject will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # be able to demonstrate a heightened sense of the performative potential of all writing; # be able to demonstrate in the writing and performance of their own texts a range of skills and strategies for making writing an event in the performance space; # have gained an appreciation of contemporary performance practices; # have gained experience writing and performing their own work - through workshopping and through the public presentation of their work as an 8 minute performance/reading to the rest of the cohort.
Assessment:	Attendance and participation in workshops 10%; a 3-minute (approximately 800 word) work-in-progress script, to be workshopped in class during semester 20%; a 5-minute solo performance/reading (equivalent to 1000 words) to be delivered in the final week of classes 20%; a 2000 word script 40% due at the end of the semester; a 200 word reflective introduction to the final script 10%, submitted with the script at the end of semester. This subject has a minimum hurdle requirement of 80% attendance and regular participation in tutorials. Assessment submitted late without an approved extension will be penalised at 10% per day. In-class tasks missed without approval will not be marked. All pieces of written work must be submitted to pass this subject.
Prescribed Texts:	A subject reader will be available
