Subject Overview:	International migration is a topic of ever-increasing interest as a result of globalisation of labour markets, and demographic pressures in sending and receiving for states. This subject equips students to understand the framework of international law that regulates the flow of people across international borders as regular or irregular migrants. It also equips students to understand the human rights of migrants who live or work in countries outside the state of their nationality. The subject has an international focus but will draw on case studies of special relevance to Australia, which has been a major migrant-receiving country for over 60 years. Principal topics will include: # Contemporary patterns of international migration # Nationality and statelessness # Regulating entry of persons # Regulating exit of persons
