Subject Overview:	Starting with the acrylics of the Western Desert (Papunya) and ending with the most recent developments in new media, the field of contemporary Aboriginal art will be surveyed. Issues such as copyright and appropriation, the art market, women's art practice, curating and collection policy are debated in this subject and key works in painting, sculpture, printmaking, and photography are studied and discussed. By the end of semester students should have a familiarity with the main issues concerning the interpretation of Aboriginal art in Australia and have a broad knowledge of the pictorial practices of prominent contemporary Aboriginal artists. Guest lectures by artists, academics and industry professionals, as well as visits to art galleries and museums, are a special feature of this subject.
Objectives:	On completion of the subject students should have: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # a familiarity with problems in the interpretation of Aboriginal art and culture in post-colonial Australia; # a broad knowledge of pictorial practices of contemporary Aboriginal art.
Assessment:	A research essay of 2500 words 60% (due during the semester) and a take-home examination of 1500 words 40% (due during the examination period).
