Subject Overview:	Criminology draws its frameworks for inquiry and understanding from a wide-range of intellectual traditions and contemporary conceptualisations. There are many recent advances in a diverse array of theory fields that challenge and excite the foundations and practices of criminological inquiry. This subject selects overarching themes from a list which includes risk, modernity, social stratification, identity, sovereignty, conflict and pluralism, and offers a detailed account of the recent work of theorists in these areas. These theorists embrace developments in fields such as history, race, feminism, culture, law, psychoanalysis and post-colonialism, and the subject assesses their capacity to enrich criminological thinking.
Objectives:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # To develop a sophisticated understanding of the relationship between criminological inquiry and theory construction in a wide range of intellectual disciplines. # To understand recent developments in theory in fields such as history, race, feminism, culture, law, psychoanalysis and post-colonialism. # To evaluate the relevance and impact of developments in theory to criminological inquiry.
