Subject Overview:	Students will consolidate their ability to communicate in German in oral and written discourse and develop cultural literacy in German by engaging with key themes in modern German-speaking societies such as the German concept of "Heimat". Students will develop more advanced language skills through reading short newspaper and magazine articles and watching film and television clips. They will produce shorter texts of different types (eg. informal and formal letters, summaries and advertisements) and learn how to discuss contemporary issues. Students will also gain an understanding of the principles of organizing language as well as developing proficiency in the use of the appropriate linguistic tools for the formation of situation-appropriate vocabulary, sentence and text structures. Through the lecture and accompanying tutorial students will be introduced to central aspects of the literature, culture and linguistics of German-speaking countries. Students will become familiar with specialized terminology and will develop analytical skills relevant to the topic area.
Objectives:	At the end of this subject students will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # use a range of vocabulary relating to contemporary German societies and be familiar with specialised terminology relating to important literary, linguistic and cultural aspects of the German-speaking countries in the modern era; # deploy more complex linguistic structures to speak and write about events in the past from different perspectives and express opinions, desires and intentions; # interpret and analyse texts and genres of a moderate level of complexity occurring in a variety of audio-visual media;

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # comprehend spoken forms of German of moderate complexity on a range of topics to do with contemporary life in German-speaking societies; # develop a proficiency in writing German of a moderate complexity and using analytical language on cultural and literary topics; # learnt to critically interpret vocabulary for specific tasks
