

PUBL90010 Print Production and Design

Credit Points:	12.50
Level:	9 (Graduate/Postgraduate)
Dates & Locations:	This subject is not offered in 2013. 2 hour seminar per week
Time Commitment:	Contact Hours: 2 Total Time Commitment: 120
Prerequisites:	Admission to the postgraduate certificate or diploma in Publishing and Communications, Master of Publishing and Communications, Master of Creative Writing, Publishing and Communications
Corequisites:	None
Recommended Background Knowledge:	None
Non Allowed Subjects:	None
Core Participation Requirements:	For the purposes of considering request for Reasonable Adjustments under the disability Standards for Education (Cwth 2005), and Students Experiencing Academic Disadvantage Policy, academic requirements for this subject are articulated in the Subject Description, Subject Objectives, Generic Skills and Assessment Requirements of this entry. The University is dedicated to provide support to those with special requirements. Further details on the disability support scheme can be found at the Disability Liaison Unit website: http://www.services.unimelb.edu.au/disability/
Contact:	Emmett Stinson stinsone@unimelb.edu.au (mailto:stinsone@unimelb.edu.au)
Subject Overview:	This subject introduces students to the aesthetics and practice of design and print production. It outlines the underlying principles of publishing design and page layout; the placement and flow of text within a visual field, the characteristics of readable type, and the interrelationship of images and text. Through reference to the history of printing, this subject will extend students' understanding of the impact of changing technologies on typography, graphic design and production processes, enabling them to develop a critical awareness of current trends in the field. Students will gain practical experience and skills in creating documents in a desktop publishing environment using industry-standard software. On successfully completing this subject, students will have improved their visual literacy, established a broad working knowledge of desktop publishing and print processes, gained an ability to appraise the visual and technical qualities of printed works, and understanding of the respective roles editors and designers play in print production.
Objectives:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # introduce students to the aesthetics and practice of print production and design; # introduce the principles and value of good typography; # extend understanding of the relationship between editing, publishing and design; # develop analytical and critical understanding of contemporary design practice; and # reach an intermediate skill level in the use of publishing layout software.
Assessment:	Presentation Materials totaling 1000 words 20% (due mid-semester), in-class Production Proofing test of 1 hour totaling 1000 words 20% (conducted late semester), Book Desktop Publishing project totaling 3000 words 60% (due in the examination period). Students are required to attend a minimum of 80% (or 10 out of 12) classes in order to qualify to have their written work assessed. Any student who fails to meet this hurdle without valid reason will not be eligible to pass the subject. All required written work must be submitted in order to pass the subject. Essays submitted after the due date without an extension will be penalised 2% per day. Essays submitted after two weeks of the assessment due date without a formally approved application for special consideration or an extension will only be marked on a pass/fail basis if accepted.

Prescribed Texts:	A bibliography of suggested further reading, and links to relevant articles and commentary will be made available on the subject LMS.
Breadth Options:	This subject is not available as a breadth subject.
Fees Information:	Subject EFTSL, Level, Discipline & Census Date, http://enrolment.unimelb.edu.au/fees
Generic Skills:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # the completion of exercises and assignments, and exposure to the protocols of publishing practice; # acquire an understanding of the principles of document design through class discussion and the completion of exercises and assignments; # acquire skills in research, including the use of online as well as print-based materials in the course of exercises and assignments; # develop skills in time management and planning through managing workloads for recommended reading, tutorial presentations and assessment requirements; and # develop a capacity for close critical analysis through engagement with a range of texts and critique of their structures and strategies.
Notes:	This subject is only available to students enrolled in the Publishing and Communications program
Related Course(s):	Master of Creative Writing, Publishing and Editing Postgraduate Certificate in Arts (Editing and Communications) Postgraduate Diploma in Arts (Editing and Communications)
Related Majors/Minors/Specialisations:	100 Point Master of Journalism 100 Point Master of Publishing and Communications 150 Point Master of Journalism 150 Point Master of Publishing and Communications 150 point program - full time over 18 months 200 Point Master of Journalism 200 Point Master of Publishing and Communications 200 point program - full time over 18 months 200 point program - full time over 24 months