Subject Overview:	This subject was formerly called Contemporary Planning Issues. Why do governments plan for cities and regions? What kinds of issues are they responding to? Why do planning decisions get some people so angry? This subject will move from the very local scale (planning issues on my street), to the metropolitan (planning issues in my city-region) and international (planning issues in a global context) scales, in order to examine central issues and processes affecting planning systems in Australia and around the world. The subject is designed to provide an introductory understanding of current social, economic, environmental, and cultural concerns and their relation to planning issues.
Learning Outcomes:	You will be assessed on your ability to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # communicate your informed opinions on contemporary planning issues and principles in Victoria and internationally, trends on these issues, and reasons for these trends; # analyse and evaluate current planning debates and related arguments on these issues and the reasons for trends and projections, and the various value positions, in relation to theory; # develop solutions to identified problem; # develop research and writing skills through independent research.
Assessment:	1,500 word essay on walkability and use of public space, due in week 5 (30%) 1,500 word essay on reducing inequalities in the context of metropolitan planning, due week 9 (30%) Poster (approximately 500 words plus illustrations) on how lessons from an international planning success story can be applied to Melbourne, due week after class ends (30%) Tutorial and class participation (10%) - Participation is assessed through a combination of one tutorial presentation (5%) and contribution to tutorial and class discussion (5%)
