Subject Overview:	This subject explores the planning, teaching and assessing of physical education for years foundation to 10. Teacher candidates will use theories of physical education and relevant areas of AusVELS to engage in planning, assessing and understanding health and physical activity. Tutorials and practical classes will enhance teacher candidates' knowledge and understanding about opportunities for developing students' knowledge and skills in physical education. Learning and assessment activities will engage teacher candidates in a mixture of group and individual activities. Specific modules of this course will include: the intended and the enacted PE curriculum, program planning, pedagogical models, assessment, differentiation, inclusivity, and health issues. Broader issues of student development will include physical, social, moral and cultural concepts associated with the promotion of a student-centred approach to teaching. All of these issues will be explored and analysed within the physical education context. By the end of this subject teacher candidates will have foundational skills and knowledge of physical education that will enable them to plan and deliver an effective program. Please note that this subject does not provide sufficient points to enable students to be classified as physical education specialists according to the Victorian Institute of Teaching guidelines.
