Subject Overview:	An intensive experimental program designed to foster artistic and conceptual strengths, informing and underpinning individual research in the first year studio program. Practical lines of enquiry will be examined through a series of set projects. While the emphasis will be on drawing, students will also explore concepts through a wide range of traditional and new media and technologies. Students are required to participate in the structured program, in group critiques and discussions, and organised excursions.
Learning Outcomes:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # assist students to pursue new and unfamiliar modes of artistic enquiry # increase confidence to undertake experimental technical/artistic approaches in developing set projects # gain early understanding of ways to approach basic levels of artistic research # develop confidence in the articulation of ideas and critical analysis of work produced # develop time management strategies in response to set deadlines # understand approaches to professional presentation of projects # understanding approaches to documentation of artwork # stimulate and expand modes of practice and enquiry
Assessment:	Assessment is based on a comprehensive folio of completed set projects, working sketches and associated experimental works submitted at the end of the semester (100%).
