Subject Overview:	This subject will provide a broad survey of Australian history from the late eighteenth century to the present day. It will look back at some of the major events and central themes that have shaped the nation's history. We will consider transformations wrought by colonisation, war, immigration, social and cultural movements, urbanisation and the environment. Topics covered include convict society, gold and democracy, race and colonialism, nationalism, city life, identity politics, and ANZAC and its legend. We will also examine how such changes have reshaped the everyday lives of Australians, their relationships to the past, and their self-conceptions. In this way, the subject will nourish a fuller understanding of the problems of the present, and also of the Australia that might come to be.
