Subject Overview:	2012 marked the 20th anniversary of the landmark Australian medical law decision, Rogers vs Whitaker. Yet medical litigation remains an exceptionally vibrant and challenging field, underpinned by the rapid pace of scientific and social developments that generate new issues for the law and its ethical framework. Many of the more challenging issues are at the core of policy – birth, reproduction and death. The legal issues are fundamental, covering the existence of duties, what should be considered negligent, the challenges of legal causation and the appropriate compensation regime; all against a background of insurance affordability, the ongoing health and safety, reporting and disclosure agenda and the Australian Disability Insurance Scheme. This subject examines the framework of medical law, current challenges and issues on the horizon. The lecturer Bill Madden is a lawyer specialising in medical litigation, co-author of two health law texts and a regular writer and presenter on medical law topics. Principal topics will include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li># History and incidence of medical litigation</li> <li># The impact of recent legal and court-based reforms including mediation</li> <li># The medical indemnity marketplace and proposed changes</li> <li># Taking instructions from clients, access to records and interlocutory stages in litigation</li> <li># Duty, breach of duty and statutory defences/special protections</li> <li># Consent, informed consent and treatment errors – the legal differences</li> </ul>
