Subject Overview:	This subject introduces students to comparative politics. There are many different aspects of and approaches to comparative politics, but all agree that this involves comparing at least two - and often many more - units of political analysis (e.g. countries, types of political system, electoral systems, areas of policy). One major theme will be the extent to which political culture (which will be defined) appears to explain differences between political systems. The subject will range across various types of system around the world, comparing the systems of several countries with models and ideal-types.
Learning Outcomes:	Students who successfully complete this subject should: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li># be familiar with the main theoretical developments since 1945 in the sub-field of political science known as comparative politics;</li> <li># be able to provide a critical overview of each of the discrete developments;</li> <li># have a basic knowledge of the main types of political systems and theories existing in the contemporary world;</li> <li># be aware of the limitations involved in comparing countries and cultures, and of the solutions that have been devised to address these.</li> </ul>
Assessment:	A 2000 word essay (50%) due mid-semester, and a 2-hour exam (50%) scheduled in examination period. Hurdle Requirement: This subject has a minimum Hurdle Requirement of 75% tutorial attendance. Regular participation in tutorials is required. Assessment submitted late without an approved extension will be penalised at 10% per working day. In-class tasks missed without approval will not be marked. All pieces of written work must be submitted to pass this subject.
