Subject Overview:	The aim of this subject is to familiarise students with contemporary life in the Russian-speaking world. Each chapter of the textbook (6-10) is studied for 2-3 weeks and consists of topically related visual and printed texts that allow students to encounter multiple perspectives and genres in both written and oral forms. Instead of the traditional approach to language instruction that is structured around a sequence of grammatical topics, this subject relies on the texts themselves to provide the textual, informational, and lexico-grammatical features that serve as the basis for developing students' language abilities. The primary text types used at this stage are dialogue, cultural information, biography and literature (both prose and poetry). Its emphasis on improving students' ability to narrate, compare and contrast, express opinions, and establish causal relationships in speaking and writing lays the groundwork for the historical texts used in third-year Russian (Russian 5 & 6).
Learning Outcomes:	By the end of this subject students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # have a good understanding of contemporary life in the Russian-speaking world with some in-depth knowledge of major social, political, and cultural issues; # be able to comprehend authentic materials (film, radio, video, native speaker conversation); # be able to produce spoken and written discourse from description to narration, to formulation of argument and/or hypothesis, incorporating an increasing variety of style and complexity; # have improved their writing abilities through extensive writing in a variety of formats (descriptions, dialogues, essays, creative writing), progressing from descriptive and narrative to evaluative and analytical, increasing in length and complexity; # have produced both oral and written presentations of various lengths and formats.
Assessment:	Regular written, listening and oral assignments will assess the students' knowledge in specified areas of thematic and cultural as well as linguistics knowledge (totalling 2000 words) throughout the semester [50%] A 10-minute oral exam during the examination period [10%] 2-hour written exam during the examination period [40%] This subject has the following hurdle requirements: Regular participation in tutorials is required with a minimum of 75% attendance. All pieces of written work must be submitted to pass this subject. Assessment submitted late without an approved extension will be penalised at 10% per day and in-class tasks missed without approval will not be marked.
