Subject Overview:	This subject offers a close study of film noir texts from Pandora's Box to Body Heat and Mulholland Drive with a focus on the history and evolution of film noir, and its changing representations of sexuality and society. The subject will consider the way in which social, political and moral factors influence cinematic style and subject matter. Topics studied will include the silent period; noir and German expressionism; noir horror; classic Hollywood noir of the 40s; postmodern noir and the evolving image of the femme fatale . Students should complete the subject with an understanding of the relationship between film and society; the historical and stylistic development of the film noir body of texts from the silent period to the present; of the symbolic relevance of the changing image of the femme fatale in the film noir; and of postmodern cinematic practice in relation to contemporary film noir.
Learning Outcomes:	On completion of the subject students should have <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # developed a critical understanding of the history of film noir – its origins, aesthetics, values and relationship to society; # the ability to apply various theories to an analysis of film such as semiotics, theories of gender, feminist film theory, psychoanalytical theory and queer theory; # be able to understand how political, sexual and cultural changes in society can exert a marked influence on the style and meaning of a film 'genre' such as noir.
Assessment:	Tutorial presentation done throughout the semester (10%), essay of 1500 words due mid-semester (30%) and an essay of 2500 words due in the examination period (60%). This subject has a minimum hurdle requirement of 75% attendance and regular participation in tutorials. Assessment submitted late without an approved extension will be penalised at 10% per day. All assessment must be submitted in order to pass this subject.
