Subject Overview:	This subject synthesises teacher candidate's broad (and developing) understanding of Visual Art curriculum including VELS, VCE and Australian National Curriculum, with the realities of what they see happening in schools. Teacher candidates will explore how the wide diversity of secondary school students develop individual academic and social knowledge values and beliefs through visual art practice. Through the design and implementation of a "curriculum project", teacher candidates will examine the role of the art teacher and her/his curriculum in this process, with a particular emphasis on the needs of a society representative of a broad panoply of cultures. This is done through a praxis model. In-depth discussion of professional literature and analysis of practicum experiences will allow teacher candidates to re-examine their personal epistemologies, and re-articulate their concepts of pedagogy. A "curriculum project" will require teacher candidates to explore these findings in a school or community setting, through a self-designed strategy.
Learning Outcomes:	On completion of this subject, the teacher candidate will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # Be interventionist practitioners who have the professional capabilities to meet the individual needs of diverse learners; # Demonstrate an understanding of the way in which theory and research informs practice;

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # Be able to articulate and justify a coherent set of beliefs about teaching and learning which based soundly on theory and research; # Respond flexibly and actively to the different learning needs of individual students, including those with additional needs; # Utilise diverse pedagogical strategies to provide rich and creative learning environments; # Develop in students the capacity for rigorous but respectful critique and curiosity for learning; # Develop in students the capacity for independent and cooperative learning # Demonstrate an awareness of cultural diversity and its implications for society and education. # Be leaders and advocates in education, responsive to legislation, policy and the global human rights issues of participation, access and inclusion. # Be engaged intelligently and passionately in the educational venture, and have the ability not only to adapt to, but also to lead change. The subject covers a range of the National Professional Standards for Teachers (for Graduate Teachers).
