Subject Overview:	Construction industry personnel and their lawyers are increasingly aware of the need to anticipate the legal implications of communication and 'issue management' throughout the project life cycle. This subject aims, therefore, to equip industry professionals and lawyers with the skills necessary to manage legal risk during the procurement and delivery phases. Complementing other subjects within our construction law program that examine legal risks and their management, this subject provides practical insights into key aspects of the legal/project

	interface, including tendering and contract preparation procedures that efficiently 'document the deal' and contract administration techniques that minimise dispute. This subject lecturers are practising lawyers who have substantial expertise and experience in advising during the various phases of a project, enabling students to develop an advanced and critical understanding of this specialised area of law. Principal topics include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li># The various stages of project inception. This will include an analysis of the role of the client, including project feasibility, financing and procurement model selection and tender preparation. It will also consider the role of the contractor in being ready for a tender, including through partnering arrangements</li> <li># The key stages of a tender, from expression of interest to requests for tender, and legal issues to be managed during this phase</li> <li># Analysis of the key project risks and their allocation and adoption between a contractor and client in negotiating a construction contract. Includes consideration of alternative approaches from contractors and clients to negotiation of these obligations</li> <li># The interface between the project management and legal disciplines, including the 'human element' in delivering the deal</li> <li># Managing sub-contract risk</li> <li># Risk identification and mitigation strategies employed during the delivery phase and their role in avoiding unnecessary dispute</li> <li># Project implementation and key steps to start a project to encourage an effective project environment</li> <li># Administering claims for time and cost under construction contracts</li> <li># Managing the 'paper war' during the delivery phase: legal and technical issues and the role and limits of communication between the parties (including legal privilege issues)</li> <li># A consideration of the legal aspects of stakeholder management during the delivery phase.</li> </ul>
Learning Outcomes:	A student who has successfully completed this subject will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li># Have an advanced and integrated understanding of legal risk in relation to construction projects</li> <li># Have enhanced their expert and specialised cognitive and technical skills required to manage and advise upon legal risk in the construction industry</li> <li># Be familiar with, be able to critically reflect on, and be confident in working across, the interaction between the technical, commercial and legal aspects of construction risk</li> <li># Be able to demonstrate the research and communication skills required to independently investigate, examine and analyse existing and emerging legal issues relating to construction risk.</li> </ul>
Assessment:	Take-home examination (100%) (17-20 July) or 10,000 word research paper (100%) (12 August) on a topic approved by the subject coordinator or A hypothetical drafting exercise (100%) (12 August) A minimum of 75% attendance is a hurdle requirement.
