Course Overview:	The Master of Public Administration is the flagship degree of the Melbourne School of Government. An inter-disciplinary and globally-focused degree, the MPA is for those professional who work with, and within, governments in Australia, the region, and around the world. The MPA draws on the expertise across the University of Melbourne to develop the skills and competencies of professionals who operate in increasingly complex governing environments where challenges cut across disciplinary, organisational, sectoral, jurisdictional and geographical boundaries. The MPA focuses on the role of managers and administrators and offers participants the opportunity to combine disciplinary expertise in political science, law, and economics and professional expertise in areas such as decision making, media and communication management, ethics, project management, strategic management, leadership and negotiation. Participants will mix theory and practice to address the complex challenges of management in practice through an interactive learning experience, combining individual and team-based learning opportunities that allow them to explore a range of contemporary issues. All participants undertake an internship or research project as part of the Melbourne MPA to apply their learning in an individual or team-based experience. In the 200 point MPA, the MPA (Enhanced), students can take five electives and these are selected in consultation with the MPA Director to enable them to explore professional and intellectual interests and to ensure the requisite background for study across the faculties at the University of Melbourne. Drawing on the broader expertise at The University of Melbourne, the MPA offers participants access to a series of master classes with world-leading practitioners and scholars to supplement and extend their intellectual and professional interests.
Learning Outcomes:	Students who complete the Master of Public Administration (Enhanced) should: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # understand the management and administrative challenges that confront public managers; # appreciate the interconnected nature of these challenges, and the power of applying interdisciplinary approaches to them; # understand the strategic environment in which managers operate and the relationships they develop to deliver on complex public policy goals; # explore the local, national, regional, and global factors that impact on these managers and their environment.
