| Subject Overview:                    | This subject enhances students' understanding of the theory and practice of written translation. Students will learn to apply text analysis, text typology, and contrastive analysis of their working languages to identify, analyse, and resolve translation problems professionally while independently developing an efficient and rational approach to the process of written translation.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Learning Outcomes:                   | On completion of this subject students should be able to -  # Develop an enhanced understanding of translation theory by completing assigned readings, lectures, class discussions, and independent research.  # Operate autonomously to improve and adapt their professional skills  # Develop a sound understanding of the range of techniques used in translation  # Develop professional skills at negotiating the cultural and intellectual boundaries of the English- and Chinese-speaking worlds  # develop the ability to use translation technologies to enhance productivity  # translate assigned tasks at a professional level                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Assessment:                          | Translation in-class exercises, equivalent to 1,000 words, 20% (weekly throughout the semester), two short translation projects, 1,000 words each, 20% each (due week 6 and week 8) and a final take home examination, 2,000 words, 40% (due during the examination period).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
