Subject Overview:	This subject studies Aboriginal dance, theatre and popular music, cultural and sporting festivals; governmental arts funding agencies; and Aboriginal arts organisations. It focuses on theoretical and political issues which arise from Aboriginal culture being both a commodity and a vehicle of Indigenous identity and resistance. It uncovers the diverse and transitional nature of contemporary Aboriginal cultural production and the social and political contexts which frame the creation and use of contemporary Aboriginal cultural production. Students undertaking this subject should develop an understanding of the politics of consumption and appreciation of Aboriginal cultural productions as well as the politics of content.
Learning Outcomes:	On completion of the subject students should have: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li># an ability to appreciate (for non-Aboriginal students especially) the politics of reading positions in relation to Aboriginal cultural production;</li> <li># an appreciation of the diversity of Aboriginal cultural production, in terms of form, content, voice and place;</li> <li># an understanding of the problematics of Aboriginal cultural production in the context of postcolonial Australia, and its relation to everyday life;</li> <li># a developed an understanding of relevant critical theories and appropriation methodologies in relation to contemporary Aboriginal cultural production;</li> <li># an ability to undertake independent research and produce high quality written material that uses rigorous methods of inquiry and encompasses the complexities and sensitivities of Australian Indigenous Studies.</li> </ul>
Assessment:	Tutorial participation and a 10-minute class presentation (done throughout the semester) 10%, an essay of 1500 words 30% (due mid-semester), and an essay of 2500 words 60% (due in the examination period). This subject has a minimum hurdle requirement of 80% attendance and regular participation in tutorials. Assessment submitted late without an approved extension will be penalised at 10% per day. In-class tasks missed without approval will not be marked. All pieces of written work must be submitted to pass this subject.
