Subject Overview:	This is a subject for the background speakers of Chinese who have limited literacy in Chinese. Students will develop their ability to communicate in Chinese at an advanced level and conduct discussion on a range of topics by engaging with the various social and cultural situations in Chinese society. Student expertise in the employment of both advanced linguistic and cultural resources is developed through reading relatively complex Chinese texts addressing each of these cultural situations, acquitting the literacies associated with these situations. The study of Chinese texts is supported by additional materials introducing the cultural topics. The texts' study is also supplemented by students' oral presentations and engaging in group discussions, as well as their conceptions of written exercise.

Learning Outcomes:	On successful completion of this subject, students should: be able to read relatively complex Chinese texts; understand important social and cultural situations in Chinese society; be able to discuss contemporary social and cultural issues and their historical backgrounds orally and in writing; be able to write Standard Chinese in a variety of styles;
Assessment:	One 1 hour mid-term test (article review) 30% (equivalent to 1000 words, Week 6) One oral test 10% (equivalent to 1000 words, Week 10) One 2 hour written examination 60% (equivalent to 2000 words during examination period) Hurdle requirement: Class attendance is required for this subject; if you do not attend a minimum of 80% of classes without an approved exemption you will not be eligible for a pass in this subject. Note: Assessment submitted late without an approved extension will be penalised at 10% per day. In-class tasks missed without approval will not be marked. All pieces of written work must be submitted to pass this subject.
Prescribed Texts:	Liu Yuanman, Wang Wenlong, Meeting China (Advanced Comprehensive Chinese), ZoujinZhongguo (Gaoji Hanyu), Peking University Press, 2012. Other materials will be provided by the Institute.
