| Subject Overview: | This is the first of two subjects that all Master of Teaching students complete as part of their Capstone experience. Incorporating campus-based lectures and tutorials and online modules, the subject will introduce students to different approaches to teacher-led research and examine the important role of research in enabling educators to transform educational practices. Topics that will be examined include: undertaking ethical teacher research; accessing, gathering and critically analysing evidence from primary and secondary sources; writing up research, and translating research into practice. Together these topic areas will provide students with the confidence, knowledge and skills to plan and carry out their own small-scale investigations for their Capstone project and future professional work. | | | | | | | | |
| Learning Outcomes: | On completion of this subject, teacher candidates should be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # Use appropriate methods to collect data about the practices of learning and teaching # Appreciate values and ethical dimensions of practitioner research # Analyse data collected by themselves and critically appraise research presented in journal articles, policy documents and reports # Understand how to represent research findings in textual and other forms # Use research findings to advance education theory and practice | | | | | | | | |
| Assessment: | Review of Literature 1,400 words, due mid-semester 40% Research Proposal 2,600 words, due end of semester 60% This subject has a minimum hurdle requirement of 80% attendance at all tutorials, seminars and workshops. | | | | | | | | |
