

ISLM90013 Human Rights and Islam

Credit Points:	12.5
Level:	9 (Graduate/Postgraduate)
Dates & Locations:	This subject is not offered in 2016.
Time Commitment:	Contact Hours: This subject is delivered as an intensive over the period of one week via seminars, lectures and/or and workshops (total 34 hours) Total Time Commitment: 170 hours total
Prerequisites:	Admission to the Master of International Relations, or Honours program in Islamic Studies, or permission from the subject coordinator.
Corequisites:	None
Recommended Background Knowledge:	None
Non Allowed Subjects:	None
Core Participation Requirements:	For the purposes of considering request for Reasonable Adjustments under the Disability Standards for Education (Cwth 2005), and Student Support and Engagement Policy, academic requirements for this subject are articulated in the Subject Overview, Learning Outcomes, Assessment and Generic Skills sections of this entry. It is University policy to take all reasonable steps to minimise the impact of disability upon academic study, and reasonable adjustments will be made to enhance a student's participation in the University's programs. Students who feel their disability may impact on meeting the requirements of this subject are encouraged to discuss this matter with a Faculty Student Adviser and Student Equity and Disability Support: http://services.unimelb.edu.au/disability
Contact:	Email: a.saeed@unimelb.edu.au (mailto:a.saeed@unimelb.edu.au)
Subject Overview:	The subject considers the conceptualization of human rights in classical and contemporary Islam in theory and practice. The methodology is interdisciplinary in nature combining aspects of historical, religious, philosophical, international and legal studies. The subject will consider the implications of conceptualizing human rights under sharia (Islamic law and norms) and Western and/ or international conceptualization of human rights. Main themes covered are: the relationship of the sharia with modern international law and human rights law; the relationship of sharia with several of the controversial subjects within human rights law; and the possibility of reform and greater compatibility of sharia with human rights values. A number of specific substantive issues, most notably freedom of religion and the rights of women will be studied in depth to illustrate the complexity of the contemporary debate on human rights and Islam.
Learning Outcomes:	A candidate who has successfully completed the subject should have an understanding of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # the Islamic foundations of human rights; # international human rights law; # the relationship between sharia with modern international law and human rights law; # the challenges of the promotion and protection of human rights at the international, regional and national level from an Islamic perspective. The candidate should be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # explain the different foundations of human rights, in particular regarding religious and secular grounding of human rights; # illustrate the cultural relativism argument in the context of Islam; # discuss the discourse of the appropriateness of applying international human rights standards in different contexts; and # critically examine the practise of human rights in various societies.

Assessment:	A 5000 word equivalent class presentation due during the teaching period (20%) A 1000 word class test due in the last week of teaching (20%) A 3000 word research paper due in the first week of the examination period (60%) Hurdle requirements: Students are required to attend a minimum of 100% of classes in order to pass this subject.
Prescribed Texts:	Materials supplied by Asia Institute.
Breadth Options:	This subject is not available as a breadth subject.
Fees Information:	Subject EFTSL, Level, Discipline & Census Date, http://enrolment.unimelb.edu.au/fees
Generic Skills:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> # Familiarization with key research methods in Islamic Studies # Developing the ability to read and analyse a wide range of sources on Islam # Developing the capacity to communicate knowledge in Islamic studies with confidence in self-expression, both written and oral # Analyse and systematically evaluate complex cultural phenomena through examination of primary texts. # Employ textual evidence in constructing scholarly argumentation. # Examine complex and important cultural materials from a scholarly perspective and present arguments in structured formats. # Understand major global cultural phenomena through examination of primary texts. # Developing the ability to work independently and in groups
Related Majors/Minors/ Specialisations:	100 Point Master of International Relations 100 Point Master of Islamic Studies 150 Point Master of Islamic Studies 200 Point Master of International Relations 200 Point Master of Islamic Studies Graduate Diploma in Arts (Advanced) - Arabic Graduate Diploma in Arts (Advanced) - Islamic Studies PD-ARTS Arabic PD-ARTS Islamic Studies