Subject Overview:	This subject is designed for students with no Japanese learning background. Students will develop essential foundation of Japanese literacy in order to be able to engage in social events and situations in an appropriate manner, while drawing on their background knowledge in their first language. Students will be introduced to the two sets of Japanese syllabaries (hiragana and katakana) and around 60 kanji characters. Students will develop communication skills required to deal with initial social encounters (self-introduction and greetings), exchanging information on everyday life routines and surroundings, and activities in which they are likely to engage in establishing a new life in a foreign country (e.g. shopping, finding ways). Students will also develop skills to enable them to get by in everyday life in Japan. In addition, students will develop intercultural understanding through identification of common Japanese rituals and routines, reflecting on their own culture and comparing between them.
Learning Outcomes:	On successful completion of this subject, students should: be able to use hiragana and katakana syllabaries and around 60 kanji characters; be able to use simple sentence structures to engage in casual conversation; be able to introduce themselves appropriately in casual settings;

	become familiar with instructions about location; understand the genre of personal narrative of here and now; understand similarities and differences in rituals and routines in initial social encounters from a cross-cultural perspective; have developed contextual and cultural awareness for intercultural communication; become sensitive and be aware of cultural values of others through intercultural communication; to be able to use online learning tools effectively to aid autonomous study.
