Subject Overview:	An accessible survey of the most important concepts and ideas in political thinking since Confucius and Plato, with particular attention to the major schools of Western political thought from Machiavelli to contemporary political theory. Emphasis will be on concepts such as sovereignty, power, liberty, and equality, and how these concepts are taken up in ideological formations, which include (but is not necessarily limited to) liberalism, Marxism, anarchism, and conservatism. Tutorial discussion focuses on eleven primary source texts of famous political essays, which may include: Machiavelli, 'The Prince', Rousseau, 'Origin of Inequality', Marx and Engels, 'The Communist Manifesto', Mill, 'On Liberty', Goldman, 'Anarchism', and Fanon, 'The Wretched of the Earth'.
Learning Outcomes:	On completion of this subject students should: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> # Demonstrate a comprehensive knowledge and critical understanding of key political concepts, including concepts such as power, sovereignty, liberty, equality, and society; # Critically apply key political concepts to the study of political ideas, including the way political ideas are articulated in ideologies such as liberalism, conservatism, socialism, and anarchism; # Develop an understanding of how political concepts and ideologies influence debates in domestic and international politics; # Demonstrate basic knowledge sufficient to evaluate key approaches to the study of politics, including historical, scientific, and material approaches to political science; # Recognize the importance of ethical claims in the way political concepts and ideologies operate in framing right and wrong; # Communicate effectively in written formats.
